Current Weather (10/22)

Red Flag Warnings are highlighted in pink, and Fire Weather Watches in peach. Near record temperatures combined with increasing winds and low relative humidity will lead to increased fire danger risks thistoday. Burning should be avoided if possible, and extra caution should be used if working in agricultural fields. Winter Storms are currently happening in the west.

Future Weather (10/23)

Severe Thunderstorms Possible. More snow and heavy snow coming from the west and hitting the midwest and south. Snow and Severe Thunderstorms are possible for Miner County. Winter Storms are possible.

Above normal temperatures, low relative humidity, and windy conditions will continue on Sunday. This will again lead to an enhanced fire danger risk. Because of that, burning should be avoided if possible, and extra caution should be used if working in agricultural fields. There is a low end chance of thunderstorms mainly from the Interstate 29 corridor and eastward on Sunday evening into Sunday night. If these storms can develop, an isolated storm could become strong to severe with damaging winds and hail.
